Title DEMYSTIFYING JOSEPH SMITH: NEW INSIGHTS FROM HIS LEGAL TRIALS

Abstract During 2005, F. Ross Boundy took a leave of absence from his law practice to assist in teaching a course entitled, "Joseph Smith & the Law" at the BYU Law School, as an adjunct to ongoing research on the Joseph Smith Papers Project.

Presenter F. ROSS BOUNDY, senior patent trial attorney with Davis Wright Tremaine LLP.

9:45 AM–11:00 AM

Title GOING "OFF SCRIPT": NON-TRADITIONAL LDS FAMILIES

Abstract A growing number of LDS families don't fit the traditional mold. Panelists discuss how they approach their departures from tradition and navigate single parenthood, childrearing, cultural differences, and blending faith traditions.

Presenters LEE WHITE, TRACY MCKAY, and other panelists to be announced.

11:15 AM–12:15 PM

Title "APOSTATES FOR A REASON": POLLY AIRD'S MORMON CONVERT, MORMON DEFECTOR: A SCOTTISH IMMIGRANT IN THE AMERICAN WEST, 1848-1861

Abstract Mormon convert Peter McAuslan emigrated from Scotland in 1854. After arriving in Utah, Mormons experienced natural disasters, a reformation, the Mountain Meadows massacre, and the arrival of the army. These violent events and the insistence on absolute obedience to church leaders tore at McAuslan's faith. Having become dissenters and fearful for their lives, his family left Utah under the protection of an army escort. McAuslan never lost his regard for the Mormon people; it was the leaders, he believed, who had not followed the highest precepts of their religion.

Presenters POLLY AIRD, independent historian; member, editorial board, Journal of Mormon History; author of several award-winning articles and co-editor of the forthcoming Playing with Shadows: Voices of Dissent in the Mormon West.

LEVI PETERSON, retired professor of English; former editor of Dialogue and author of two collections of short stories, two novels, a biography, and an autobiography.

JONATHAN STAPLEY received a doctorate from Purdue University; works with a firm that is industrializing his graduate research; independent historian, serving on the editorial board of the Journal of Mormon History.

Title MAKING WAVES: PAST AND PRESENT APPROACHES TO MORMON FEMINISM AND ACTIVISM

Abstract Panelists discuss the trajectories they have observed in Mormon feminism/activism over the years, starting with email discussion lists of the 1990s, the emergence of blogs and social media tools, and the current efforts of LDS WAVE to engage a new generation in advocacy.

Presenters HOLLY WELKER, WENDY REYNOLDS, JANEANNE PETERSON, JANET GARRARD-WILLIS, and JENNE ALDERKS

3:00 PM–4:15 PM

Title PANEL: LDS CHURCH AND NEW MEDIA

Abstract The LDS Church has been the subject of much media scrutiny of late. With the attention has come some not-so-ideal PR, including backlash from California's Prop 8 and survey results indicating many identify Mormons with polygamy (if they know anything about Mormons at all). Panelists discuss the LDS Church's use of new media and advertising to share the gospel, correct misconceptions, and improve the Church's image.

Presenters HOLLY WELKER, STEVE EVANS, and other panelists TBA.

4:30 PM–5:30 PM

Title THE DEVELOPMENT OF LDS TEMPLE WORSHIP, 1846-2000: A DOCUMENTARY HISTORY

Abstract Since 1846 when the first LDS temple with private rituals was completed in Nauvoo, much has changed regarding the ceremonies, policies, and practices. Church leaders puzzled over how to handle various situations and theological and temporal implications. Hear the story behind the story from the historical records collected in this documentary history.

Presenter DEVERY S. ANDERSON is co-editor of Joseph Smith's Quorum of the Anointed, 1842-1845 and The Nauvoo Endowment Companies, 1845-1846, which won MHA's 2006 Best Documentary Book Award.

5:45 PM–7:00 PM

Title MEDITATION FOR MORMONS

Abstract At its core, Mormonism is a mystical tradition, and meditation practices appropriately pursued can help each of us become more aware of the mystical dimensions of our faith. John will suggest practical steps in developing a meditative practice consistent with the restored gospel.

Presenter JOHN KESLER was the director of the official meditation center for the 2002 Winter Olympics in Salt Lake and is a founding teacher at the Integral Spiritual Center. John has served as bishop and in several bishoprics and is a practicing attorney.
